<-- This Text keeps on typing in and out, making it hard to read it
Going to instead seize this from happening

<-- Here I am going to make blue with white text to match the calmer vibe

<--Buttons do not match up, matching these with the ones from the main slideshow, also are currently in their original font

-The font and colors I will change to represent a less flashy more calm choice but rather than completely switching the colors I will replace the bottom white with blue, the top white with light gray, and the font to arial and times new roman.

Welcome! We're Glad You're Here.

<-- Here is the best example of the white being the 60%

Welcome! We're Glad You're

<-- Here I am going to make blue with white text to match the calmer tone and showcase the Times New Roman font

<-- Buttons are now the same as the slideshow, leading to less confusion when selecting the correct button, also show the Times New Roman font

<-- Rather than the typing fancy stuff from earlier, instead all the text is not moving/being typed out so the reader can read the full message

-Times New Roman fits more with this theme and is more professional.

-The colors are still the original color pallet with the most noticeable being blue and white switching between the 60% and 10%

<-- Here is the best example of the blue becoming the 60%

Help

-Looking through the elements to find the style that contains that element's background color or font color. This is how I was able to change the dominate color from white to blue along with changing the colors of the buttons both font color and background color

-For fonts I looked for the font family as I noticed most elements contained and used this style line. While it showcases a bunch of different fonts on one of these is used and that font used would be located within the quotation marks
