I do not believe we need any of these since except announcements or activity, but they are hardly used, if incorporated to work alongside say the student bulletin announcements from email then these two tabs could stay

Academic Tools could stay, communication/meeting are not needed as one separate tab, rather I believe combining it with tech support and campus safety is much better

I already mentioned tech support, student pages could include spiritual life, as for livestreams no one really uses these so I doubt they are needed

In terms of dark mode, the colors don't really scream student portal, I do not get the choice of red buttons instead of something resembling the school. As for the buttons themselves, allow these to be the shortcut section instead or commonly used segment

I like the idea of widgets, but the library ID does not make sense to me

Two sections for groups are not required, I say keep the section and allow the user to select which groups are to display, remove university wide groups and make the icon for student groups different than student pages

Announcements and Activity will be like the event calendar and student life announcements

While it may seem I gotten rid of most of the sections, rather I am implying that if one is to combine other sections (such as campus, security, tech support, and communications) then we would have a less crowded navigation bar

-Students/Spiritual life combined
-Tech Support, Communications, and Campus Security Combined
-University Groups and Groups are combined

The solution for me was simplification. What I ended up doing was simplifying the port, removing not used or not needed segments and combing some to other sections

- Academics
- Finances & Accounts

This here will be where the shortcuts will be, there can be other sections added that when a student adds something it will pop up, such as Student Pages button appears and opening it reveals the academics and registration tab (my only shortcut from previous page)

I would suggest adding more widgets but for now I demonstrated that no widget should be 'required', rather it is selected, in this case I removed the library ID for I found no use in that being in my dashboard, I also suggest making these side scroll like that of the student groups section
